

Euroleague for Life Sciences Prize for excellent Master theses
- donated by Prof. Dr. Prof. h.c. Dr. h.c. Klaus Macharzina, former president of the University of Hohenheim -

The ELLS Prize honours excellent Master theses in the area of life sciences written in English language. Eligible are students of ELLS universities who actively participated in ELLS study exchange programmes. Students of the University of Hohenheim must have acquired 18 ECTS of their MSc programme at other ELLS universities. Students of other ELLS universities must have acquired 18 ECTS of their MSc programme at the University of Hohenheim.

All representatives of preliminarily or finally approved ELLS subject areas have the right for nominations. Deadline for submission of nominations is 31 May of each calendar year for theses that have been completed during the previous year. Nominees have to submit their complete MSc thesis preferably in electronic form and two recommendation letters, one of their supervisor and one of an external examiner from another ELLS university.

The ELLS Task Force reviews the nominations and recommends the recipients. The final decision on the recipients and the amount of the individual prizes is taken by the rector of the University of Hohenheim. The total prize amount of 5.000 € p.a. can be divided among up to 5 winners.

The award ceremony is held at the yearly autumn conference of the Euroleague for Life Sciences.

The Master thesis with the enclosures has to be submitted to:
Prof. Dr. Hans-Peter Liebig, Rektor, Universität Hohenheim, D – 70593 Stuttgart, Mail: rektor@uni-hohenheim.de.